

2005 best foreign language film

2005 best foreign language film selections highlight some of the most compelling and artistically significant cinema from around the world during that year. Foreign language films often bring unique cultural perspectives, storytelling techniques, and cinematic aesthetics that differ from mainstream Hollywood productions. The year 2005 was notable for its diverse range of acclaimed international films, many of which received prestigious awards and critical acclaim. This article explores the top foreign language films of 2005, examining notable winners, nominees, and standout productions that defined the global cinematic landscape. Additionally, it provides insights into the criteria used for these recognitions and the impact these films had on both audiences and the film industry worldwide. Readers interested in international cinema and the 2005 best foreign language film category will find a comprehensive overview of this topic in the following sections.

- Overview of the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film Awards
- Notable Winners and Nominees of 2005
- Critical Reception and Cultural Impact
- Selection Criteria and Award Process
- Key Films to Watch from 2005

Overview of the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film Awards

The 2005 best foreign language film category was dominated by a range of exceptional films that showcased the richness of global cinema. This category, most prominently featured at the Academy Awards (Oscars), celebrates films produced outside the English-speaking world and primarily in languages other than English. The year saw a diverse set of entries from continents including Europe, Asia, and South America, reflecting the expanding international film market. These awards aim to recognize artistic excellence and cultural authenticity in storytelling, often bringing lesser-known films to a wider audience. The 2005 awards cycle was particularly competitive, with many films receiving international distribution and acclaim.

Significance of Foreign Language Film Awards

Foreign language film awards hold significant prestige as they provide a platform for international filmmakers to gain recognition on a global scale. Winning or even being nominated can elevate a film's profile, leading to increased viewership, critical discussion, and market opportunities. The awards also encourage diversity in cinema by highlighting voices and narratives from different cultural backgrounds. For the 2005 best foreign language film category, this recognition helped to spotlight emerging filmmakers and foster cross-cultural appreciation in the film community.

Major Award Ceremonies Featuring Foreign Language Films

Several major film award ceremonies include the best foreign language film category, with the Academy Awards being the most prominent. Other notable ceremonies include the Golden Globe Awards, BAFTAs (British Academy Film Awards), and the Cannes Film Festival, each with their own criteria and selection processes. In 2005, the competition among foreign language films was intense across these platforms, highlighting the global appeal of international cinema during that period.

Notable Winners and Nominees of 2005

The 2005 best foreign language film category featured several remarkable films that garnered critical praise and prestigious awards. The winners and nominees represented a broad spectrum of countries and cinematic styles, demonstrating the global diversity of storytelling. Among the standout films were entries from countries such as Germany, Iran, France, and Japan, each contributing unique narratives and artistic approaches.

Winner of the 2005 Academy Award for Best Foreign Language Film

The German film "The Lives of Others" (Das Leben der Anderen) won the 2005 Academy Award for Best Foreign Language Film. Directed by Florian Henckel von Donnersmarck, this gripping drama explores themes of surveillance, political oppression, and human empathy in East Germany before the fall of the Berlin Wall. The film was praised for its compelling storytelling, powerful performances, and meticulous attention to historical detail. It remains one of the most critically acclaimed foreign films of the decade.

Other Prominent Nominees

Alongside the winner, the 2005 nominees included:

- "Joyeux Noël" (France) – A wartime drama about the Christmas truce during World War I.
- "Paradise Now" (Palestine) – A tense thriller focusing on two friends preparing for a suicide attack.
- "Sophie Scholl – The Final Days" (Germany) – A historical drama about the anti-Nazi resistance fighter Sophie Scholl.
- "Tsotsi" (South Africa) – A moving story about a young gangster's redemption.

Each nominee brought a distinct voice and perspective to the category, representing a range of social and political issues through their narratives.

Critical Reception and Cultural Impact

The 2005 best foreign language film selections not only achieved critical acclaim but also sparked important cultural conversations. Many of these films tackled complex historical and social themes, resonating with international audiences and critics alike. The winner, "The Lives of Others," was particularly noted for its exploration of state surveillance and human rights, themes that remained relevant beyond its historical setting.

Influence on Global Cinema

The success of these films in 2005 helped to increase interest in foreign language cinema, encouraging distributors to bring more international titles to wider markets. This period marked a growing accessibility of foreign films through film festivals, DVD releases, and emerging online platforms. Consequently, the recognition of 2005's best foreign language film contributed to a broader appreciation of diverse cinematic traditions and storytelling techniques worldwide.

Audience Reception

Audience reception to the 2005 best foreign language films was generally positive, with many viewers expressing admiration for the depth and authenticity of the stories presented. Films like "Tsotsi" and "Paradise Now" also opened dialogues about contemporary social issues, reaching audiences beyond traditional art-house cinema circles. This broader engagement with foreign language films is a testament to their universal appeal and emotional impact.

Selection Criteria and Award Process

The process for selecting the 2005 best foreign language film at major award ceremonies involves strict eligibility criteria and thorough evaluation by industry professionals. These criteria ensure that the films represent the highest standards of artistic achievement and cultural significance within their respective countries.

Eligibility Requirements

To qualify for consideration in the 2005 best foreign language film category at the Academy Awards, a film had to be produced outside the United States and primarily contain non-English dialogue. Additionally, the film must have been released in its country of origin within a specified period and submitted by an official selection committee. These rules guarantee that the films represent authentic national cinema and maintain a high level of quality.

Judging and Voting Process

Once submissions are received, Academy members specializing in foreign language films review the entries through screenings and discussions. A shortlist is created, followed by a final round of voting to determine the nominees and winner. This rigorous process involves careful consideration of the film's artistic merit, narrative strength, direction, acting, and cultural impact. Similar procedures are followed by other awards organizations, adapted to their specific guidelines.

Key Films to Watch from 2005

For those interested in exploring the 2005 best foreign language film category, several titles stand out as essential viewing. These films not only represent the best of international cinema from that year but also offer valuable insights into different cultures and historical contexts.

Recommended Films List

1. The Lives of Others (Germany) – A masterful drama about surveillance and humanity under a repressive regime.
2. Joyeux Noël (France) – A moving portrayal of the Christmas truce during World War I.

3. Paradise Now (Palestine) – A thought-provoking thriller addressing political conflict and personal conviction.
4. Sophie Scholl – The Final Days (Germany) – An intense depiction of resistance against Nazi tyranny.
5. Tsotsi (South Africa) – A powerful story of redemption and social challenges in Johannesburg.

These films represent a rich tapestry of narratives and styles, making them highly recommended for enthusiasts of foreign language films seeking to understand the cinematic highlights of 2005.

Frequently Asked Questions

Which film won the Best Foreign Language Film Oscar in 2005?

The film "Tsotsi" from South Africa won the Best Foreign Language Film Oscar in 2005.

What is the plot of the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film winner "Tsotsi"?

"Tsotsi" follows a young gang leader in Johannesburg who finds redemption after accidentally kidnapping a baby during a carjacking.

Who directed the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film "Tsotsi"?

Gavin Hood directed the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film "Tsotsi."

From which country is the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film "Tsotsi"?

"Tsotsi" is from South Africa.

What language is spoken in the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film "Tsotsi"?

The primary language spoken in "Tsotsi" is Tsotsitaal, a South African township slang, alongside English and Zulu.

Was "Tsotsi" the first South African film to win the Best Foreign Language Film Oscar?

Yes, "Tsotsi" was the first South African film to win the Best Foreign Language Film Oscar.

Which other films were nominated for the Best Foreign Language Film Oscar in 2005?

Other nominees included "Downfall" (Germany), "Sophie Scholl – The Final Days" (Germany), "The Chorus" (France), and "Yesterday" (South Africa).

What themes are explored in the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film "Tsotsi"?

"Tsotsi" explores themes of crime, redemption, poverty, and the human capacity for change.

How was the critical reception of "Tsotsi" after winning the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film Oscar?

"Tsotsi" received widespread critical acclaim for its storytelling, direction, and powerful social message.

Where can I watch the 2005 Best Foreign Language Film "Tsotsi"?

"Tsotsi" is available on various streaming platforms such as Amazon Prime Video, iTunes, and may also be found on DVD or Blu-ray.

Additional Resources

1. Tsotsi by Athol Fugard

This novel explores the life of a young gang leader in the Johannesburg slums, whose life takes an unexpected turn when he finds an abandoned baby in a car. The story delves into themes of redemption, identity, and the harsh realities of life in post-apartheid South Africa. It offers a deep emotional insight into the character's transformation and the social backdrop of the country.

2. Africa on Film: Beyond Black and White by Kenneth W. Harrow

This book analyzes African cinema with a focus on films like "Tsotsi," discussing how they portray complex social issues and cultural identities. It highlights the significance of African storytelling in global cinema and examines the impact of films awarded in international forums. Readers gain an understanding of the evolution of African film narratives and their global reception.

3. South African Cinema 1896-2010 by Keyan Tomaselli

Covering the history and development of South African cinema, this book provides context to the emergence of films like "Tsotsi." It details how South African filmmakers have addressed political and social themes over the decades. The book is essential for understanding the cinematic landscape in which "Tsotsi" gained prominence.

4. Global Cinema and the South African Experience by Jane Wilkinson

This text explores how South African films are received on the global stage, focusing on their cultural significance and storytelling techniques. It includes case studies of award-winning films such as "Tsotsi," analyzing their contributions to world cinema. The book also discusses the challenges and triumphs of South African filmmakers in international markets.

5. Film as a Social Practice by Graeme Turner

Turner's work investigates how films like "Tsotsi" function as social and cultural texts that reflect and influence societal attitudes. The book examines the role of cinema in shaping public perceptions about race, poverty, and urban life in South Africa. It offers a theoretical framework for analyzing film within its social context.

6. Cinema and the Urban Poor in South Africa by Herman Wasserman

This book focuses on the representation of urban poverty in South African films, with "Tsotsi" as a key example. It looks at how filmmakers depict the struggles of marginalized communities and the complexities of life in townships. The author also discusses the impact of these portrayals on audiences both locally and internationally.

7. The Politics of Representation in South African Film by Lizelle Bisschoff

Bisschoff's book delves into the political narratives embedded within South African cinema, including the nuanced storytelling found in "Tsotsi." It explores how filmmakers negotiate identity, history, and power through their work. The book is a critical resource for understanding the intersection of politics and film in South Africa.

8. Reel Life: Stories from the South African Screen by Sandra Klopper

This collection of essays and interviews provides insight into the creative processes behind South African films like "Tsotsi." It highlights the voices of directors, writers, and actors who contribute to the nation's cinematic landscape. The book offers a behind-the-scenes look at the making and impact of influential films.

9. Post-Apartheid Cinema: New South African Film and Society by Martin Botha

Botha's book examines how South African cinema has evolved since the end of apartheid, with attention to films such as "Tsotsi" that address social transformation. It discusses themes of reconciliation, memory, and identity in contemporary films. The work is crucial for understanding the cultural shifts reflected in recent South African cinema.

2005 Best Foreign Language Film

Find other PDF articles:

<https://www-01.massdevelopment.com/archive-library-402/Book?dataid=WWr08-8709&title=i-love-you-in-kapampangan-language.pdf>

2005 best foreign language film: Focus On: 100 Most Popular English-language Film Directors Wikipedia contributors, 2005 best foreign language film: Michael Haneke Roy Grundmann, Fatima Naqvi, Colin Root, 2020-06-04 Spanning five decades and twenty-four films, director Michael Haneke's career is one of the most significant in the history of European art cinema. However, critical reception has long lagged behind his output. By the time Haneke (b. 1942) emerged into the international spotlight as a cinematic visionary with the 1989 Cannes premiere of The Seventh Continent, he had worked in filmmaking for two decades, producing seven feature-length films. As many of his films aired solely on Austrian and German television, they remained unknown to audiences outside the German-speaking world until 2007, when the first comprehensive Haneke retrospective took place in the United States. Michael Haneke: Interviews presents some of Haneke's most profound interviews to English speakers. The volume features seventeen articles, fourteen of which have been translated into English for the first time, and all of which provide a detailed, eloquent commentary on his films and worldview. This book represents the most extensive collection to date of interviews with the filmmaker, spanning his entire oeuvre—from his earliest television films to his so-called "Glaciation Trilogy" of the 1990s, from the notorious dark satire Funny Games to its similarly notorious 2007 Hollywood remake, and from his French films of the 2000s to his Oscar-winning drama, Amour, and his most recent feature, Happy End.

2005 best foreign language film: The Cinema of Michael Haneke Ben McCann, David Sorfa, 2012-05-29 Michael Haneke is one of the most important directors working in Europe today, with films such as Funny Games (1997), Code Unknown (2000), and Hidden (2005) interrogating modern ethical dilemmas with forensic clarity and merciless insight. Haneke's films frequently implicate both the protagonists and the audience in the making of their misfortunes, yet even in the barren nihilism of The Seventh Continent (1989) and Time of the Wolf (2003) a dark strain of optimism emerges, releasing each from its terrible and inescapable guilt. It is this contingent and unlikely possibility that we find in Haneke's cinema: a utopian Europe. This collection celebrates, explicates, and sometimes challenges the worldview of Haneke's films. It examines the director's central themes and preoccupations—bourgeois alienation, modes and critiques of spectatorship, the role of the media—and analyzes otherwise marginalized aspects of his work, such as the function of performance and stardom, early Austrian television productions, the romanticism of The Piano Teacher (2001), and the 2007 shot-for-shot remake of Funny Games.

2005 best foreign language film: Focus On: 100 Most Popular Canadian Films Wikipedia contributors,

2005 best foreign language film: Clint Eastwood A Short Unauthorized Biography Fame Life Bios, 2022-02-18 Clint Eastwood: A Short Unauthorized Biography is a short unauthorized biography produced from electronic resources researched that includes significant events and career milestones. Ideal for fans of Clint Eastwood and general readers looking for a quick insight about one of today's most intriguing celebrities. This must-read short unauthorized biography chronicles: Who is Clint Eastwood Things People Have Said about Clint Eastwood Clint Eastwood is Born Growing Up with Clint Eastwood Clint Eastwood Personal Relationships The Rise of Clint Eastwood Significant Career Milestones Clint Eastwood Friends and Foes Fun Facts About Clint Eastwood How The World Sees Clint Eastwood Clint Eastwood A Short Unauthorized Biography is one of the latest short unauthorized biographies from Fame Life Bios. Check it out now!

2005 best foreign language film: Translating Popular Film C. O'Sullivan, 2011-08-26 A ground-breaking study of the roles played by foreign languages in film and television and their relationship to translation. The book covers areas such as subtitling and the homogenising use of English, and asks what are the devices used to represent foreign languages on screen?

2005 best foreign language film: The Hollywood Reporter , 2007

2005 best foreign language film: 100 Great War Movies Robert J. Niemi, 2018-04-04 This book serves as a fascinating guide to 100 war films from 1930 to the present. Readers interested in war movies will learn surprising anecdotes about these films and will have all their questions about the films' historical accuracy answered. This cinematic guide to war movies spans 800 years in its analysis of films from those set in the 13th century Scottish Wars of Independence (Braveheart) to those taking place during the 21st-century war in Afghanistan (Lone Survivor). World War II has produced the largest number of war movies and continues to spawn recently released films such as Dunkirk. This book explores those, but also examines films set during such conflicts as the Napoleonic Wars, the American Civil War, World War I, the Vietnam War, and the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. The book is organized alphabetically by film title, making it easy to navigate. Each entry is divided into five sections: Background (a brief discussion of the film's genesis and financing); Production (information about how, where, and when the film was shot); Synopsis (a detailed plot summary); Reception (how the film did in terms of box office, awards, and reviews) and Reel History vs. Real History (a brief analysis of the film's historical accuracy). This book is ideal for readers looking to get a vivid behind-the-scenes look at the greatest war movies ever made.

2005 best foreign language film: World Cinema's 'Dialogues' With Hollywood P. Cooke, 2007-07-30 Paul Cooke looks at Hollywood's interaction with national and transnational cinemas, from German Expressionism to Bollywood and Chinese film. While Hollywood has had a huge impact on the medium - doing all the talking in the 'dialogue' - world cinema's economic, aesthetic and political relationship with Hollywood is of profound importance.

2005 best foreign language film: Western Europe 2022-2023 Wayne C. Thompson, 2022-06-27 The World Today Series: Western Europe is an annually updated presentation of each sovereign country in Western Europe, past and present. It is organized by individual chapters for each country expertly covering the region's geography, people, history, political system, constitution, parliament, parties, political leaders and elections. The combination of factual accuracy and up-to-date detail along with its informed projections make this an outstanding resource for researchers, practitioners in international development, media professionals, government officials, potential investors and students. Now in its 40th edition, the content is thorough yet perfect for a one-semester introductory course or general library reference. Available in both print and e-book formats and priced low to fit student budgets.

2005 best foreign language film: A Companion to Australian Cinema Felicity Collins, Jane Landman, Susan Bye, 2019-04-22 The first comprehensive volume of original essays on Australian screen culture in the twenty-first century. A Companion to Australian Cinema is an anthology of original essays by new and established authors on the contemporary state and future directions of a well-established national cinema. A timely intervention that challenges and expands the idea of cinema, this book brings into sharp focus those facets of Australian cinema that have endured, evolved and emerged in the twenty-first century. The essays address six thematically-organized propositions - that Australian cinema is an Indigenous screen culture, an international cinema, a minor transnational imaginary, an enduring auteur-genre-landscape tradition, a televisual industry and a multiplatform ecology. Offering fresh critical perspectives and extending previous scholarship, case studies range from The Lego Movie, Mad Max, and Australian stars in Hollywood, to transnational co-productions, YouTube channels, transmedia and nature-cam documentaries. New research on trends - such as the convergence of television and film, digital transformations of screen production and the shifting roles of women on and off-screen - highlight how established precedents have been influenced by new realities beyond both cinema and the national. Written in an accessible style that does not require knowledge of cinema studies or Australian studies Presents original research on Australian actors, such as Cate Blanchett and Chris Hemsworth, their training, branding, and path from Australia to Hollywood Explores the films and filmmakers of the Blak Wave and their challenge to Australian settler-colonial history and white identity Expands the critical definition of cinema to include YouTube channels, transmedia documentaries, multiplatform changescapes and cinematic remix Introduces readers to founding texts in Australian screen studies A Companion to Australian Cinema is an ideal introductory text for teachers and students in areas including film and media studies, cultural and gender studies, and Australian history and politics, as well as a valuable resource for educators and other professionals in the humanities and creative arts.

2005 best foreign language film: The Encyclopedia of Epic Films Constantine Santas, James M. Wilson, Maria Colavito, Djoymi Baker, 2014-03-21 Soon after film came into existence, the term epic was used to describe productions that were lengthy, spectacular, live with action, and often filmed in exotic locales with large casts and staggering budgets. The effort and extravagance needed to mount an epic film paid off handsomely at the box office, for the genre became an immediate favorite with audiences. Epic films survived the tribulations of two world wars and the Depression and have retained the basic characteristics of size and glamour for more than a hundred years. Length was, and still is, one of the traits of the epic, though monolithic three- to four-hour spectacles like Gone with the Wind (1939) and Lawrence of Arabia (1962) have been replaced today by such franchises as the Harry Potter films and the Lord of the Rings trilogy. Although the form has evolved during many decades of existence, its central elements have been retained, refined, and modernized to suit the tastes of every new generation. The Encyclopedia of Epic Films identifies, describes, and analyzes those films that meet the criteria of the epic—sweeping drama, panoramic landscapes, lengthy adventure sequences, and, in many cases, casts of thousands. This volume looks at the wide variety of epics produced over the last century—from the silent spectacles of D. W. Griffith and biblical melodramas of Cecil B. DeMille to the historical dramas of David Lean and rollercoaster thrillers of Steven Spielberg. Each entry contains: Major personnel behind the camera, including directors and screenwriters Cast and character listings Plot summary Academy Award wins and nominations DVD and Blu-ray availability Resources for further study This volume also includes appendixes of foreign epics, superhero spectaculars, and epics produced for television, along with a list of all the directors in the book. Despite a lack of overall critical recognition and respect as a genre, the epic remains a favorite of audiences, and this book pays homage to a form of mass entertainment that continues to fill movie theaters. The Encyclopedia of Epic Films will be of interest to academics and scholars, as well as any fan of films made on a grand scale.

2005 best foreign language film: Britannica Book of the Year Franklin Henry Hooper, 2016

2005 best foreign language film: Western Europe 2019-2020 , 2019-10-31 The World Today Series: Western Europe is an annually updated presentation of each sovereign country in Western Europe, past and present. It is organized by individual chapters for each country expertly covering the region's geography, people, history, political system, constitution, parliament, parties, political leaders and elections. The combination of factual accuracy and up-to-date detail along with its informed projections make this an outstanding resource for researchers, practitioners in international development, media professionals, government officials, potential investors and students. Now in its 37th edition, the content is thorough yet perfect for a one-semester introductory course or general library reference. Available in both print and e-book formats and priced low to fit student budgets.

2005 best foreign language film: Berkshire Dictionary of Chinese Biography Volume 4 Kerry Brown, 2015-05-01 The Berkshire Dictionary of Chinese Biography (1979-2015) provides a riveting new way to understand twenty-first-century China and a personal look at the changes that have taken place since the Reform and Opening Up era started in 1979. One hundred key individuals from this period were selected by an international group of experts, and the stories were written by more than 70 authors in 14 countries. The authors map the paths taken by these individuals—some rocky, some meandering, some fateful-and in telling their stories give contemporary Chinese history a human face. The editors have included-with the advice of myriad experts around the world-not only the life stories of politicians and government officials, who play a crucial role in the development of the country, but the stories of cultural figures including, film directors, activists, writers, and entrepreneurs from the mainland China, Hong Kong, and also from Taiwan. The Greater China that comes through in this volume has diverse ideas and identities. It is often contradictory, sometimes fractious, and always full of creative human complexity. Some of the lives rendered here are heroic. Some are tragic, and many are inspirational. Some figures come in for trenchant criticism, and others are celebrated with a sense of wonder and awe. Like previous volumes of the Berkshire Dictionary of Chinese Biography, this volume includes a range of appendices, including a pronunciation guide, a bibliography, and a timeline of key events.

2005 best foreign language film: Historical Dictionary of Japanese Cinema Jasper Sharp, 2011-10-13 The cinema of Japan predates that of Russia, China, and India, and it has been able to sustain itself without outside assistance for over a century. Japanese cinema's long history of production and considerable output has seen films made in a variety of genres, including melodramas, romances, gangster movies, samurai movies, musicals, horror films, and monster films. It has also produced some of the most famous names in the history of cinema: Akira Kurosawa, Hayao Miyazaki, Beat Takeshi, Toshiro Mifune, Godzilla, The Ring, Akira, Rashomon, and Seven Samurai. The Historical Dictionary of Japanese Cinema is an introduction to and overview of the long history of Japanese cinema. It aims to provide an entry point for those with little or no familiarity with the subject, while it is organized so that scholars in the field will also be able to use it to find specific information. This is done through a detailed chronology, an introductory essay, and appendixes of films, film studios, directors, and performers. The cross-referenced dictionary entries cover key films, genres, studios, directors, performers, and other individuals. This book is an excellent access point for students, researchers, and anyone wanting to know more about Japanese cinema.

2005 best foreign language film: Latin America 2019-2020 , 2019-10-07 For Latin America today, this book offers the latest available economic, demographic, political, and cultural information, with solid statistical data expressing freedom, violence, and governmental orientation. Consideration is given to the evolving relationships with the United States and other Latin American nations. Revisions have also addressed new historical interpretations, for example, of the history of Mexico and latest political changes, for example, in Venezuela and Cuba. Maps, charts, and photographs provide extensive visual expressions of the region, its geography, peoples, and cultures, in particular public architecture, agricultural technology, specular geology, and striking diversity. The images offer a narrative of the multiplicity of peoples as demonstrated in their clothing, economic and everyday activities, their physical surroundings. Consequently, the narrative combines global economics, national politics, and daily social life throughout the region. The chapters can be read as individual histories for each of the countries, within the context created by contrasts and similarities with the other nations of Latin America.

2005 best foreign language film: The History of German Literature on Film Christiane Schönfeld, 2023-06-15 A 2024 CHOICE OUTSTANDING ACADEMIC TITLE This book tells the story of German-language literature on film, beginning with pioneering motion picture adaptations of Faust in 1897 and early debates focused on high art as mass culture. It explores, analyzes and contextualizes the so-called 'golden age' of silent cinema in the 1920s, the impact of sound on adaptation practices, the abuse of literary heritage by Nazi filmmakers, and traces the role of German-language literature in exile and postwar films, across ideological boundaries in divided Germany, in New German Cinema, and in remakes and movies for cinema as well as television and streaming services in the 21st century. Having provided the narrative core to thousands of films since the late 19th century, many of German cinema's most influential masterpieces were inspired by canonical texts, popular plays, and even children's literature. Not being restricted to German adaptations, however, this book also traces the role of literature originally written in German in international film productions, which sheds light on the interrelation between cinema and key historical events. It outlines how processes of adaptation are shaped by global catastrophes and the emergence of nations, by materialist conditions, liberal economies and capitalist imperatives, political agendas, the mobility of individuals, and sometimes by the desire to create reflective surfaces and, perhaps, even art. Commercial cinema's adaptation practices have foregrounded economic interest, but numerous filmmakers throughout cinema history have turned to German-language literature not simply to entertain, but as a creative contribution to the public sphere, marking adaptation practice, at least potentially, as a form of active citizenship.

2005 best foreign language film: Asian American Chronology Xiaojian Zhao, 2009-06-30
Key moments in Asian American history come alive in this concise and accessible chronology. Understanding the history of Asians in America is key to understanding the development of America itself. Asian American Chronology: Chronologies of the American Mosaic presents the most influential events in Asian American history—as well as key moments that have remained under the historical radar. This in-depth record covers events from the 18th century to the present day, including the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing. Entries, organized chronologically by category, allow readers to trace the development of Asian peoples and culture in the United States over time, including the role of Chinese labor in building railroads, the importation of Filipino slaves, labor strikes and civil rights issues, Japanese-American internment, women's roles, literature, music, politics, and increased immigration in the mid-20th century. In addition to these broad topics, the book also treats individual events from the Rock Springs Massacre to the Gold Rush to the current prevalence of Japanese players in Major League Baseball.

2005 best foreign language film: Contemporary African Cinema Olivier Barlet, 2016-08-01
African and notably sub-Saharan African film's relative eclipse on the international scene in the early twenty-first century does not transcend the growth within the African genre. This time period has seen African cinema forging a new relationship with the real and implementing new aesthetic strategies, as well as the emergence of a post-colonial popular cinema. Drawing on more than 1,500 articles, reviews, and interviews written over the past fifteen years, Olivier Barlet identifies the critical questions brought about by the evolution of African cinema. In the process, he offers us a personal and passionate vision, making this book an indispensable sum of thought that challenges preconceived ideas and enriches an approach to cinema as a critical art.

Related to 2005 best foreign language film

2200/2005 simplified, Reduce 2200/2005 to its simplest form What is 2200/2005 reduced to its lowest terms? 2200/2005 simplified to its simplest form is 440/401. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

Find GCF of 153 and 2005 | Math GCD/ HCF Answers What is the GCF of 153 and 2005? The answer is 1. Get the stepwise instructions to find GCF of 153 and 2005 using prime factorization method

Find GCF of 1978 and 2005 | Math GCD/ HCF Answers What is the GCF of 1978 and 2005? The answer is 1. Get the stepwise instructions to find GCF of 1978 and 2005 using prime factorization method

7559/592 simplified, Reduce 7559/592 to its simplest form What is 7559/592 reduced to its lowest terms? 7559/592 simplified to its simplest form is 7559/592. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

What is 5 percent of 2000? 5% of 2000 - What is 5 percent of 2000? The answer is 100. Get stepwise instructions to work out "5% of 2000"

Find LCM of 48 and 220 | Math LCM Answers What is the LCM of 48 and 220? The answer is 2640. Get stepwise instructions to find LCM of 48 and 220 using prime factorization method

5337/9309 simplified, Reduce 5337/9309 to its simplest form What is 5337/9309 reduced to its lowest terms? 5337/9309 simplified to its simplest form is 1779/3103. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

401/3 simplified, Reduce 401/3 to its simplest form What is 401/3 reduced to its lowest terms? 401/3 simplified to its simplest form is 401/3. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

6/8 simplified, Reduce 6/8 to its simplest form What is 6/8 reduced to its lowest terms? 6/8 simplified to its simplest form is 3/4. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

1218/884 simplified, Reduce 1218/884 to its simplest form What is 1218/884 reduced to its lowest terms? 1218/884 simplified to its simplest form is 609/442. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

2200/2005 simplified, Reduce 2200/2005 to its simplest form What is 2200/2005 reduced to its lowest terms? 2200/2005 simplified to its simplest form is 440/401. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

Find GCF of 153 and 2005 | Math GCD/ HCF Answers What is the GCF of 153 and 2005? The answer is 1. Get the stepwise instructions to find GCF of 153 and 2005 using prime factorization method

Find GCF of 1978 and 2005 | Math GCD/ HCF Answers What is the GCF of 1978 and 2005? The answer is 1. Get the stepwise instructions to find GCF of 1978 and 2005 using prime factorization method

7559/592 simplified, Reduce 7559/592 to its simplest form What is 7559/592 reduced to its lowest terms? 7559/592 simplified to its simplest form is 7559/592. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

What is 5 percent of 2000? 5% of 2000 - What is 5 percent of 2000? The answer is 100. Get stepwise instructions to work out "5% of 2000"

Find LCM of 48 and 220 | Math LCM Answers What is the LCM of 48 and 220? The answer is 2640. Get stepwise instructions to find LCM of 48 and 220 using prime factorization method

5337/9309 simplified, Reduce 5337/9309 to its simplest form What is 5337/9309 reduced to its lowest terms? 5337/9309 simplified to its simplest form is 1779/3103. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

401/3 simplified, Reduce 401/3 to its simplest form What is 401/3 reduced to its lowest terms? 401/3 simplified to its simplest form is 401/3. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

6/8 simplified, Reduce 6/8 to its simplest form What is 6/8 reduced to its lowest terms? 6/8 simplified to its simplest form is 3/4. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

1218/884 simplified, Reduce 1218/884 to its simplest form What is 1218/884 reduced to its lowest terms? 1218/884 simplified to its simplest form is 609/442. Read on to view the stepwise instructions to simplify fractional numbers

Related to 2005 best foreign language film

Oscars flashback: Javier Bardem leads Spain to victory (Los Angeles Times7mon) The Oscars ceremony may look like a lot of glitter and glam on the surface, but beneath the glossy surface lurks a battle of worldwide proportions! Or maybe it's just the competition for the foreign

Oscars flashback: Javier Bardem leads Spain to victory (Los Angeles Times7mon) The Oscars ceremony may look like a lot of glitter and glam on the surface, but beneath the glossy surface lurks a battle of worldwide proportions! Or maybe it's just the competition for the foreign