cultural competence self assessment quiz: Multifactorial balance assessment, falls prevention and rehabilitation Nattawan Utoomprurkporn, Marousa Pavlou, Dimitrios Kikidis, Christos Nikitas, 2025-10-13 Balance control is a complex process that is vulnerable to the effects of aging and cognitive decline, as well as various neurological factors such as Parkinson's disease, Lewy body dementia (LBD), and Frontotemporal dementia (FTD). These conditions affect different parts of the brain, leading to diverse symptoms and increasing the risk of falls, which coexist with multiple comorbidities including stroke, mild cognitive impairment, vestibular disorders, and long COVID-19. Recent studies have shown that both static and dynamic balance is impaired in individuals with mild cognitive impairment (MCI), and these impairments worsen under cognitive challenges, such as multitasking. Impaired balance and dizziness are consistently identified as risk factors for falls, negatively impacting quality of life with significant physical, psychosocial, and healthcare-related consequences. Multimodal, multifaceted falls prevention programs targeting the specific needs of high-risk individuals are essential. However, there is a lack of access to falls specialist services around the globe, insufficient integrated clinician education, and a shortage of well-trained clinicians to provide individualized falls assessment and care. This is particularly crucial given the neurological complexities of conditions like Parkinson's, LBD, and FTD. Additionally, patient adherence to existing exercise programs is poor, with 70% dropping out early. Balance physiotherapy is a key intervention for falls prevention, and it is imperative to develop comprehensive, individualized multifactorial balance rehabilitation programs. Technology-based solutions can help address these issues by increasing accessibility and adherence, providing wider and easier home-based access to high-quality falls services and interventions.

cultural competence self assessment quiz: Empathy Fatigue Mark A. Stebnicki, 2008-05-19 Many mental health practitioners present symptoms that are consistent with their clients' anxiety and stress-related disorders. It comes as no surprise, then, that counselor impairment - the stress that comes from treating survivors of traumatic events - is now officially recognized by the American Counseling Associations' Task Force on Counselor Wellness. Empathy Fatigue is a term coined by the author after his own experience serving on the crisis response team for the Westside Middle School shootings in Jonesboro, Arkansas. Remarkably, symptoms of empathy fatigue are evident amongst a broad range of professionals: those who treat victims of stressful and traumatic events; those who treat persons with abuse, mood, anxiety, and stress-related disorders; as well as those who work in career and vocational settings or with people with mental and physical disabilities. This guide is also meant for all these groups. This book provides a repertoire of strategies, techniques, and insight designed to increase personal resiliency and decrease counselor burnout and fatigue: Self-assessment approaches, with an in-depth analysis of empathy fatigue and an explanation of this phenomenon from a mind, body, and spiritual perspective. Detailed case studies and suggested questions for self-assessments and self-care. A variety of self-care approaches, providing guidelines to counselors and clinicians to identify their own emotional, physical, and mental exhaustion. .
