Understanding MLA Citation Style

MLA (Modern Language Association) citation style is widely used in humanities disciplines, especially in literature, cultural studies, and history. It provides a standardized method for documenting sources, allowing readers to trace the origin of information. MLA style emphasizes the author-page format for in-text citations and a detailed Works Cited page entry. Understanding the fundamentals of MLA citation is crucial when referencing speeches like the "I Have a Dream" address to maintain academic rigor and clarity.

Key Features of MLA Style

The MLA format requires specific components in citations such as the author's name, title of the source, container titles when applicable, publication details, and the date. For speeches, the citation may vary depending on whether the speech is accessed in print, online, or through audio or video recordings. MLA style also mandates double-spacing, hanging indents for entries on the Works Cited page, and the use of italics or quotation marks as appropriate.

Why Cite Speeches?

Citing speeches like "I Have a Dream" is necessary to give proper credit to the original speaker and to allow readers to verify the source. Speeches often contain powerful rhetoric and historical significance, making accurate citation important for scholarly discussions, research papers, and presentations.

Citing the "I Have a Dream" Speech in MLA Format

When citing the "I Have a Dream" speech in MLA format, the citation depends on the source through which the speech was accessed. The original speech was delivered by Martin Luther King Jr. on August 28, 1963, at the Lincoln Memorial during the March on Washington. This information forms the foundation of the citation.

Basic Format for Citing a Speech

The general MLA format for a speech citation is as follows:

1. Speaker's Last Name, First Name.
2. Title of the Speech in Quotation Marks.
3. Title of the Container (if applicable, such as a book, website, or video platform) in Italics.
4. Other contributors (if relevant, such as editors or translators).
5. Version or edition (if applicable).
6. Publisher.
7. Date of publication or performance.
8. Location or URL (if accessed online).

Example Citation for the Original Speech

King, Martin Luther, Jr. "I Have a Dream." 28 Aug. 1963, Lincoln Memorial, Washington, D.C.

This citation includes the speaker's name, the title of the speech in quotation marks, the date, and the location where the speech was given. This format is appropriate for referencing the speech as an independent event or document.

Examples of MLA Citations for the Speech

Depending on how the speech is accessed, the MLA citation varies. Below are examples illustrating common scenarios for citing the "I Have a Dream" speech.

If the speech is included in a book or anthology, the citation should include the editor, book title, publisher, and publication date:

King, Martin Luther, Jr. "I Have a Dream." Great Speeches of the 20th Century, edited by John Smith, Penguin Books, 2005, pp. 134-139.

When paraphrasing ideas from the speech, acknowledge the source similarly to direct quotes, ensuring the in-text citation corresponds to the Works Cited entry:

Example: Martin Luther King Jr. emphasized the hope for racial equality and justice in his 1963 speech ("I Have a Dream").

Formatting Tips

- Use quotation marks around direct speech excerpts.

- Incorporate block quotes for passages longer than four lines.
- Ensure all in-text citations have corresponding Works Cited entries.

Special Considerations for Digital and Audio Sources

Citing Streaming Platforms and Websites

When citing the speech from streaming platforms or websites, include the platform's name, the uploader or author of the video, and the date of publication or upload. URLs should be included without hyperlink formatting.

Access Dates and Stability of Sources

Including the date the source was accessed is recommended for online content that may be updated or removed. This practice informs readers about the currency of the reference.
