History and Mission of the Wisconsin Black Historical Society Museum

The Wisconsin Black Historical Society Museum was founded with the mission to collect, preserve, and share the stories and artifacts related to African American history in Wisconsin. Established by a group of passionate historians, community leaders, and activists, the institution focuses on documenting the diverse experiences of Black Wisconsinites. Its mission emphasizes the importance of historical preservation as a means to empower current and future generations. The museum actively seeks to present an accurate and inclusive narrative that addresses both triumphs and challenges faced by African Americans in the state.

Founding and Development

The museum's origins date back to efforts in the late 20th century when community members recognized a lack of representation of Black history in mainstream Wisconsin historical institutions. Over time, these efforts culminated in the formal establishment of the Wisconsin Black Historical Society Museum. Since its inception, the museum has expanded its archival collections, exhibit spaces, and educational outreach, becoming a central hub for African American history in the region.

Core Mission and Values

The core mission centers on preserving Black heritage, fostering cultural pride, and educating the public about the significant contributions of African Americans in Wisconsin. The museum upholds values such as inclusivity, accuracy, respect for diverse perspectives, and community collaboration. These principles guide its programming, research initiatives, and partnerships with local organizations and schools.

Exhibits and Collections

The Wisconsin Black Historical Society Museum features a wide range of exhibits that showcase the rich tapestry of African American life in Wisconsin. These exhibits include historical artifacts, photographs, oral histories, and documents that bring to life the stories of individuals and communities. The collections highlight various themes such as migration, civil rights, cultural traditions, and notable figures from the state.

Permanent Exhibits

Permanent exhibits provide visitors with an in-depth look at key historical periods and themes relevant to Wisconsin's Black communities. These displays often include:

- Artifacts from early African American settlers in Wisconsin
- Documents and photographs from the civil rights movement within the state
- Profiles of influential African American leaders, artists, and activists
- Exploration of cultural traditions, including music, art, and religious practices

Temporary and Traveling Exhibits

In addition to the permanent collections, the museum hosts temporary exhibits that focus on specific topics or contemporary issues. These exhibits rotate periodically, allowing for fresh perspectives and highlighting current research or community stories. Traveling exhibits from other institutions are also sometimes featured, broadening the scope of cultural exchange and education.

Educational Programs and Community Engagement

Education is a cornerstone of the Wisconsin Black Historical Society Museum's efforts. The museum offers a diverse range of educational programs designed for students, educators, and the general public. These initiatives aim to deepen understanding of African American history and its relevance today.

School and Youth Programs

The museum provides curriculum-aligned programs that engage students in learning through interactive tours, workshops, and presentations. These programs often emphasize critical thinking about history, social justice, and cultural identity. By partnering with local schools, the museum helps integrate African American history into broader educational contexts.

Public Lectures and Workshops

Regularly scheduled lectures, panel discussions, and workshops invite historians, scholars, and community members to share knowledge and perspectives. These events foster community dialogue and promote awareness of ongoing issues related to race, equality, and heritage preservation.

Community Outreach and Partnerships

The museum actively collaborates with community organizations, cultural institutions, and civic groups to extend its reach and impact. Outreach efforts include hosting cultural celebrations, commemorative events, and joint educational projects that engage diverse audiences across Wisconsin.

Visiting Information and Accessibility

The Wisconsin Black Historical Society Museum is committed to providing an accessible and welcoming environment for all visitors. Clear guidelines and visitor services ensure a comfortable experience while promoting educational enrichment.

Location and Hours

The museum is located in a central area accessible by public transportation and offers convenient hours suited to accommodate school groups, tourists, and local residents. Seasonal variations in hours may apply, and it is advisable to check ahead for special events or closures.

Accessibility Features

The facility is equipped with features to support visitors with disabilities, including wheelchair access, assistive listening devices, and materials available in multiple formats. Staff members are trained to assist visitors with diverse needs to ensure inclusive participation.

Admission and Services

Admission policies typically include options for individual tickets, group rates, and sometimes free entry days to encourage community engagement. Additional services such as guided tours, educational materials, and gift shop offerings enhance the visitor experience.

Impact on Wisconsin's Cultural Landscape

The Wisconsin Black Historical Society Museum plays a significant role in shaping and enriching the cultural landscape of the state. By preserving African American heritage and promoting education, the museum contributes to a more inclusive historical narrative and fosters community pride.

Cultural Preservation and Recognition

The museum's efforts help safeguard artifacts and stories that might otherwise be lost, ensuring that the African American experience remains a visible and respected part of Wisconsin's history. This preservation supports broader recognition of diverse cultural contributions within the state.

Influence on Education and Public Awareness

Through its programs and exhibits, the museum raises public awareness about the complexities of racial history and contemporary issues affecting Black communities. Its educational initiatives influence curricula and public discourse, promoting understanding and empathy.

Community Empowerment and Collaboration

By fostering partnerships and community involvement, the Wisconsin Black Historical Society Museum empowers local residents and organizations. These collaborations strengthen social bonds and encourage active participation in cultural and historical preservation efforts.

wisconsin black historical society museum: Historical Black Milwaukee (1950 to 2022)
Dr. Michael Bonds, 2023-08-23 In Historical Black Milwaukee (1950-2022), the author illustrates how an African American community grew over time and the people, events, and institutions that shaped Black Milwaukee. He also shows the contributions that African Americans made to the City of Milwaukee's growth and its history. Bonds provides a detailed discussion on historical Black Milwaukee. He shows how a small Black population of 21,772 (3.41%) out of Milwaukee's population of 637,392 in 1950 grew to become the second-largest racial group in Milwaukee with a total population of 223,962 (38.8%), based on the City of Milwaukee's 2021 estimated population of 577,222. The author discusses the people (community leaders, Black elected officials at every level of government, and Black professionals in the public, private, and criminal justice sectors) who shaped historical Black Milwaukee. Moreover, he provides a detailed discussion of various institutions (Black businesses, schools, religion, media outlets (newspaper, radio stations, televisions, etc.), social service agencies, and more that shaped historical Black Milwaukee. And the book reveals the role of Black cultural institutions (museums, art galleries, bookstores, nightclubs, sports leagues, etc.), cultural events (festivals, art shows, and more), Black neighborhoods, and public landmarks (streets, buildings, murals, parks, etc.) named after Blacks who contributed to the growth of its community and the City of Milwaukee's history. This book discusses the challenges and opportunities that led to the integration of the Black population into the City of Milwaukee. Historical Black Milwaukee will become a book that can be updated regularly and can provide a one-stop reference book on Black Milwaukee for the period of 1950-2022. The book also discusses lessons learned from historical Black Milwaukee and their implications for other Black communities.

wisconsin black historical society museum: More Than One Struggle Jack Dougherty, 2005-12-15 Traditional narratives of black educational history suggest that African Americans offered a unified voice concerning Brown v. Board of Education. Jack Dougherty counters this interpretation, demonstrating that black activists engaged in multiple, overlapping, and often conflicting strategies to advance the race by gaining greater control over schools. Dougherty tells the story of black school reform movements in Milwaukee from the 1930s to the 1990s, highlighting the multiple perspectives within each generation. In profiles of four leading activists, he reveals how different generations redefined the meaning of the Brown decision over time to fit the historical conditions of their particular struggles. William Kelley of the Urban League worked to win teaching jobs for blacks and to resettle Southern black migrant children in the 1950s; Lloyd Barbee of the NAACP organized protests in support of integrated schools and the teaching of black history in the 1960s; and Marian McEvilly and Howard Fuller contested--in different ways--the politics of implementing desegregation in the 1970s, paving the way for the 1990s private school voucher movement. Dougherty concludes by contrasting three interpretations of the progress made in the fifty years since Brown, showing how historical perspective can shed light on contemporary debates over race and education reform.

wisconsin black historical society museum: Milwaukee's Bronzeville: Paul H. Geenen, 2012-09-18 With the migration of African American sharecroppers to northern cities in the first half of the 20th century, the African American population of Milwaukee grew from fewer than 1,000 in 1900 to nearly 22,000 by 1950. Most settled around a 12-block area along Walnut Street that came to be known as Milwaukee's Bronzeville, a thriving residential, business, and entertainment community. Barbershops, restaurants, drugstores, and funeral homes were started with a little money saved from overtime pay at factory jobs or extra domestic work taken on by the women. Exotic nightclubs, taverns, and restaurants attracted a racially mixed clientele, and daytime social clubs sponsored matinees that were dress-up events featuring local bands catering to neighborhood residents. Bronzeville is remembered by African American elders as a good place to grow up--times were hard, but the community was tight.

wisconsin black historical society museum: A History Lover's Guide to Milwaukee James Nelsen, 2021-10-18 Milwaukee is often described as a big small town, and its quirky character stems from its many neighborhoods--each with its own stories to tell. Early territorial disputes, for example, led to the horribly (or humorously) misaligned streets of downtown. The city's signature rectangular pizza was born in the Third Ward. In Kilbourn town, Teddy Roosevelt was saved from an assassin's bullet by the smallest of items. Not far from that spot, eight baseball team owners formed the American League of Professional Baseball Clubs. And no matter the neighborhood, a fantastic glass of suds is never far away in this renowned beer city. Leading readers on a neighborhood-by-neighborhood tour, author and Milwaukee native Jim Nelsen pinpoints the fascinating historic locations of the Cream City.

By 1960, that number had been reduced by half. With the arrival of television for the home market, the golden age of the movie theater in Milwaukee was dead. Yet their ghosts continue to haunt the old neighborhoods. Churches, warehouses, stores, nightspots, and other businesses now occupy the former Tivoli, Paris, Roosevelt, and Savoy Buildings. Others are simply vacant hulks, decaying from the inside out. wisconsin black historical society museum: Defining Moments in the Life And Times of Tyrone Pierre Dumas Tyrone Pierre (Kofi) Dumas, 2022-07-14 My life and times have taken many twist and turns. When I was in grade school, at Twelfth Street School, I thought I was going to be a piano player after taking lessons because we had to piano at home for me to practice that did not last long. In junior high school at Robert Fulton Junior High, I fell in love with playing the drums and really got good at it. My mom broke down and purchased me a set of drums and even got to our community's great drummers to teach me. Victor Sword was jazz drummer, and Vic Pitts was a drummer with the Seven Sounds R&B group. I learned so much from them and thought I would play in a band one day. In junior high I also fell in love with design and drafting in drafting class with the added learning in metal shop and carpentry class. Using my hand was one of the common things about all those possible career choices. The piano and the drum made noise while I could sit for hours with a pencil/pen and draw. By 1970-71, while in my first year of college, I settled on architecture. I quit when I found no time to practice as my studies and assignments started to take all my time. I should add that along with my college work and study requirements, I found some friends and girls who became a part of my new priorities. As a Black first-generation college student, I lost my mind while partying with my brotherhood and sisterhood most of the week and weekends. I also found love in all that chaos when I met my future wife, and we had kids, while starting a family in 1972-73. Life changed again as I figured out that many sacrifices would have to take center stage in pursuit of completing college. I started college at MATC (Milwaukee Area Technical College) in 1970, and in 1973/74, I was admitted into UWM (University of WI-Milwaukee) School of Architecture. I was so in the groove to get my degree. During a two-year period (1973-1975), I decided to finish up at MATC part-time to get my associates degree, while attending UWM full-time from 1973 to 1977 to get my bachelor's degree. For a two-year period, I attended both day and night schools, worked PT jobs and work study jobs, and participated in the raising of out two children while my wife worked full-time. I had quit drinking, partying, and smoking after I got married and was needing some mental-health stability, which I found in 1974, when I started doing stand-up comedy, as inspired by comedian Richard Pryor. The rest is history, as I achieved all my goals by getting both my associate and bachelor's degrees, with the intervention of my Lord and Savior/God during all the times I thought I could not make it. In fact, during the times I wanted to quit, my wife would call my mother and my mother-in-law, and I would go to sit with them and get the words of wisdom from these angels for support. There were other significant help and support during my career launch from the beginning until now. Ms. Margaret Garner-Thompson gave me the money to pay my MATC tuition in 1970. Mr. Prentice McKinney told me about student financial aid, which allowed me to pay for my college years. Dr. Earnest Spaight, Rachel Seymore, Clara New, Paul Pettie, Dr. Sandra Moore, and many others at UWM and MATC helped me clarify purpose and meaning in my life from 1970 to 1977. Triumph the Church of God in Christ became a foundation of faith while in college where Aunt Red, Reverend Buck, Queenie, and my mother-in-law, Hagar Harrel, lifted me up to do well as they worked to build a new church and they added me to the design committee. My school time, life, and family got an intervention-based boost from these angels, sent by God. My sister Sharon was married with her family at that time while my brother Anthony was in the US Navy. My grandmother, Grandcheer/Arvella Twine, was always cheering for me from her home in Fordyce, Arkansas, where I spent my summers as a kid. I am a product of my family, good people, friends, neighborhoods and community, which allowed the moments of my life to happen! Life for me is comparable to the alphabet, with A being the beginning of life (born date) and Z being the end of life (death). The real life and book you write is done in the B through Y. The many chapters are written by you and all those members of your family whom you have impacted. The chapters of the book continue to be written even when you have passed on and become an ancestor by your family members and friends. As an ancestor, every time your name is remembered, spoken, or thought about, you still live in love, peace, faith, and spirit within those still writing their book chapters! 1

From the Society's earliest days as pioneers worked to record history even as it was happening, to its struggles to weather the Great Depression, and its landmark efforts to record the most important social and political movements of our times. From its very start, the Society has worked to "treasure up" the stories of people from every walk of life, in every corner of the state. The story behind the Wisconsin Historical Society is a uniquely Wisconsin story – one that belongs to all who call Wisconsin home.

wisconsin black historical society museum: Milwaukee's Forest Home Cemetery Forest Home Historians and the Forest Home Historic Preservation Association, 2020-07-27 In his book Cream City Chronicles, Milwaukee historian John Gurda wrote, What lies buried beneath the trees of Forest Home is the foundation of Milwaukee. In 1849, St. Paul's Episcopal Church purchased 72 acres in Milwaukee to create Forest Home Cemetery, a cemetery for the city and an eternal resting place for all. Increase Lapham was hired to design Forest Home based on the garden cemetery model. More than a thousand trees speak to its name. The first burial occurred in August 1850, and the story continues today with 189 acres of a graceful landscape and Victorian-era monuments that are measured in tons. Beneath its majestic trees are buried the city's historic founders and developers, mayors, beer barons, industrialists, pioneering women, and Civil War casualties, whose fascinating stories are brought to life through never-before-seen photographs.
